Baltimore, Maryland—Design Collective, Inc. is pleased to announce the promotion of five of our staff to Associate. Those promoted include:

THOSE PROMOTED TO SENIOR ASSOCIATE INCLUDE:

MATTHEW HERBERT, RA, LEED AP

Skilled in architectural detailing and design, consultant coordination and construction administration, Herbert has been an invaluable asset in the successful implementation of the firm's projects. Of particular note is his work for Coppin State University and the University of Maryland, Baltimore. Herbert received his Bachelor and Masters degree from the University of Maryland, College Park.

MARVIN KEMP, AIA, CSI

With over 13 years of professional experience, Kemp has been the project manager on such technically sophisticated and state of the art projects as the Health Sciences Building at Delaware Technical & Community College and the Nursing Department Academic Building at Shepherd University. He received his Bachelor of Architecture degree from Mississippi State University.

JENNIFER MCLAUGHLIN, CID

With a Bachelor degree in Architecture from Temple University, McLaughlin brings a comprehensive understanding of design on all levels to every project. She is particularly adept at managing challenging corporate projects for clients like Legg Mason and Wells Fargo, as well as institutional projects for clients like Catholic Relief Services, James Madison University and Johns Hopkins University.

THOMAS ZEIGENFUSS, ASSOCIATE AIA

A recipient of the Thesis Award, Zeigenfuss graduated from the University of Maryland, College Park with a Bachelor and Masters degree in Architecture. His exceptional design talent has been engaged on numerous high profile corporate, urban mixed-use and institutional projects over the past 10 years, including Advertising.com and James Madison University's CISAT Library.

JOHN CORKILL, III

Since receiving his Bachelor of Architecture degree from The Catholic University of America, Corkill has been involved in a diverse range of higher education projects. He has served as project architect and manager on such notable projects as the Visual and Performing Arts Building for Howard Community College and Health Sciences Facility II for University of Maryland, Baltimore.

"Each individual promoted has demonstrated their commitment to furthering the growth of Design Collective, and has proven to be genuine assets in all endeavors. At Design Collective, we look to the leaders within to move our firm towards its goals," said Dennis Jankiewicz, AIA, President, Design Collective.
