Baltimore, Md. - Design Collective, Inc. is pleased to announce the promotion of a new partner and two new principals, as well as the addition of a new principal.

MICHAEL GOODWIN, AIA, PARTNER

Mr. Goodwin leads the firm's efforts in continually relaying our project delivery process to better serve our clients. Over the last 15 years he has amassed an impressive portfolio of projects including Domus, a $77 million development in Philadelphia, Pa., and Crescent Falls Church, a 415,000 SF complex designed for LEED certification in Falls Church, Va. Many projects completed under his leadership have received local and national recognition for their creativity and contextual sensitivity. Typically, Michael is involved in the project from conceptual and schematic phases through design development and coordination of designs into contract documents. He is a 1992 graduate of the University of Maryland with both a Bachelor of Science degree and Master's degree in Architecture.

JOHN CLARK, PRINCIPAL

Mr. Clark is an industry leader and a driving force in creating and defining retail space throughout the United States and abroad. His creative efforts have established trends and set new design paradigms for open air centers like Coco Walk in Miami, Fla., town centers like Easton in Columbus, Ohio, and brand entertainment such as Muvico Theaters. Through his notable experience and accomplishments, John will be further enhancing Design Collective's retail sector and integrating it with our planning, residential, hospitality and commercial office sectors to seamlessly design successful and memorable entertainment, mixed-use projects.

DON HARRIS, AIA, CCS, CSI, CCCA

Over the past 22 years Mr. Harris has developed a keen ability to interpret engineering and architectural plans and specifications, compute construction costs for changes, negotiate equitable adjustments, and inspect materials, workmanship, construction and installation of various systems. He is also experienced with coordinating multiple subcontractor submittals and has developed systematized field project management practices that have been beneficial to every Design Collective project. Don's responsibilities range from dispatching field directives to post construction services, all in a manner that meets the objectives of the client in context with programming and scheduling directed by the architect and subconsultants. He attended the University of Maryland and earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Architecture.

SURESH KODOLIKAR, AIA, NCARB, PRINCIPAL

Mr. Kodolikar's process for project evaluation and construction knowledge makes him especially valuable to both the firm and our clients. His project responsibilities have included: facility evaluations; project management; client relations; programming; design; construction documentation and construction administration. He has supervised numerous higher education projects, many of which were for Howard Community College and the University System of Maryland. Currently, Suresh is involved with Stanhope Center, a new housing development for North Carolina State University's students, and a new $44 million library for Morgan State University in Baltimore. He graduated from the University of Bombay, India with a Bachelor of Architecture degree and a Masters of Architecture degree from The Catholic University of America.
